HOUSE OVERRIDES LABOR BILL VETO

OL' MAN RIVER APPEARS SET FOR TOP CREST

Mississippi, Fed by Rampaging Streams, Causes Mass Evacuations.

By The Associated Press

HANNIBAL, Mo., June 20—The mighty Mississippi river, fed by rampaging streams in Iowa and Missouri, appeared headed for record crests today as flood waters threatened communities and farmlands in the Hannibal-Quincy (Ill.) area.

As hundreds remained homeless in Iowa, Missouri and Illinois from recent floods, other hundreds prepared to evacuate as the Mississippi continued to rise steadily and flood waters, pounding water-soaked and weakened levees, spread out over thousands of acres of land.

With forecasts of new high marks today and tomorrow, workers fought desperately to save the 60-mile long Sny levee in Pike county, Ill. The water was expected to top or nearly top this barrier protecting 120,000 acres of land in three counties and several small communities.

Residents Evacuated

Most of the 600 residents in Hull, Ill., evacuated yesterday and took refuge in nearby Kinderhook where the Red Cross has set up a relief station. The Red Cross estimated about 3,000 persons have homes in the Sny levee district and all of them have been ordered to evacuate by Sheriff Clifford Windsor of Pike county.

Alexandria, Mo., remained inundated and all 600 residents have left. Canton, Mo., was half under water from earlier floods, but its levees are well sandbagged and no new damage was expected unless the river rises higher than predicted.

At Hannibal the Red Cross made preparations for caring for 1,000 persons expected to be made homeless. The Mississippi river had reached a stage of 22.9 feet last night, a foot under its high mark of the previous flood.

In interior Missouri, the Missouri river was overflowing more lowlands between Lexington and Boonville.

Beats Previous Record

Water was receding at Oakville and Wapello, on the Iowa river. Oakville Mayor O. D. Johnson said the crest there of 18.6 feet, was more than two feet higher than the 1929 precious record. Oakville was completely evacuated but little water got into the town of 440 population as volunteer workers managed to hold the levees.

At Ottumwa, water was receding slowly, but still was four feet above flood stage.

The Mississippi continued to rise at Keokuk and A. A. Kower, chief engineer for Quincy, Ill., said the crest would reach Keokuk about noon.

At Hamburg, Ia., on the Nishnabotna river near the Missouri river, about half the town was flooded, and 300 families were being cared for in Red Cross centers.

IN AMERICAN CLIPPER CRASH. Stewardess Jane Bray (above) of New York City escaped with her life when a Pan-American clipper flying from Karachi, India, to Istanbul crashed near Meyadine in east Syria, killing 15 and injuring 10 of the 39 persons aboard. The ofur-motored craft plunged to destruction after its No. 2 engine caught fire.

NAB MAN IN 20 AUTO THEFTS

Police Believe Marion and Bucyrus Cars Stolen for Transportation.

William Dale Snavely, 25, of Marion was arrested at 1:09 p. m. here yesterday and turned over to Bucyrus police, as the climax of a four-month old search for the person responsible for the theft of 20 or more automobiles, city police reported today.

Bucyrus authorities said Snavely last night admitted to stealing 10 of the 11 cars taken from Bucyrus between May 14 and June 15. Auto larceny charges will be filed today, Bucyrus police said.

Marion authorities stated that 11 cars had been stolen from Marion between Feb. 23 and June 14, all of which were recovered in Bucyrus. The Bucyrus cars were all located in Marion.

None of the automobiles were damaged and police said Snavely apparently took the cars merely to provide transportation. Each car would be driven from one town to the other and then abandoned, another stolen and driven back.

Until recently Snavely had lived and worked in Bucyrus. Last Monday he came to Marion and started working at the American Malleable Castings Co. where Marion and Bucyrus authorities located him yesterday afternoon.

Since the first of the thefts, the police in Bucyrus and police and state patrolmen in Marion have worked together in the attempt to locate the thief.

Snavely gave his address here as the Werley hotel.

ROBERT BYRD SUFFERS SHOCK AT HUBER PLANT

In Accident While Taking Industrial Photos.

Robert Byrd of 1216 East Church street, account executive with the Jay H. Maish Co., suffered shock and was rendered unconscious for a short time yesterday afternoon when it is believed he came in contact with a 440-volt electric wire while taking pictures at the Huber Co. plant.

A part of Mr. Byrd's work is taking pictures for house organs of industrial plants and yesterday afternoon he had gone to the Huber Co. plant. The accident occurred after he had gone up on a catwalk to aim his camera down on a product.

He had regained consciousness when firemen from Central station arrived in response to a call for an inhalator, and was removed to the City hospital where the attending physician said he was suffering from shock. His condition is improved and he was dismissed from the hospital today.

MASSILLON POLICE RECHECK EVIDENCE

By Brush-Moore State Service

MASSILLON, June 20 — Although a break had appeared imminent yesterday, police and personnel of the county prosecutor's office today still were systematically rechecking all evidence in connection with the murders of two baby girls in Massillon City hospital two weeks ago.

But for the first time police and county investigators appeared to be enthusiastically pursuing a deliberate pattern of investigation. Those who offered information now are putting it in the form of sworn statements.

During all-day questioning yesterday, the parents and an uncle of Rose Mary Morton, one of the slain babies, agreed to submit to voluntary lie-detector tests, Prosecutor D. Deans McLaughlin said today.

He said arrangements now are being completed for tests of Harry Morton, 26, the father; his wife, Evelyn, 24, and Mrs. Morton's brother, Jack Wagner, 23.

Results of a previous test voluntarily taken by Morton June 9 in Cleveland were "inconclusive." The test was taken a few hours after the funeral for his daughter.

During the evening yesterday special unidentified witnesses who offered information they thought

VETO CALLED OPEN DEFIANCE OF U. S. PEOPLE

Republican Leaders Say Truman Has Made Bid for 5th New Deal Term.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 20 — Republican leaders today denounced President Truman's veto of the labor bill as open defiance of the people's will and as a surrender to "radical elements" in the Democratic party.

Democrats at the capitol had nothing to say about Mr. Truman's action for the time being.

Reece Denounces Veto

Carroll Reece, chairman of the Republican national committee, called the veto a "plain defiance of the will of the American people, as expressed in the elections of 1946." It is, Reece added in a statement:

"An obvious attempt to preserve the administration's alliance with the Political Action Committee and its assorted subversive allies" and "an open bid for a fifth term for the New Deal."

House Republican Leader Charles Halleck of Indiana, said that the labor bill and the tax reduction legislation, which Mr. Truman vetoed, earlier were both "enacted by the congress in "response to the desire of the overwhelming majority of our people.

"In vetoing them," Halleck said, "President Truman has yielded to political expediency, the bludgeoning of pressure groups, and to the threats of radicals and Communists who would like nothing more than to see our economy falter, * * * and chaos result."

Rep. Hartley (R-NJ), chairman of the house labor committee and co-author of the labor bill, spurned Mr. Truman's suggestion for adoption of a new measure to fit the President's recommendations. He said the things Mr. Truman proposes already are in the Taft-Hartley bill and that congress would make it "law, veto or no veto."

Veto Overriding Called Play Into Red Hands

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., June 20 — Passage of the Taft-Hartley labor bill over a presidential veto would "serve the cause of Communism" in the United States, says William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

In an interview with a newsman last night following his address at the annual convention of the AFL-International Ladies Garment Workers Union, Green said he believed veto action by President Truman would be overridden in the house but expressed hope it would be sustained by the senate

If the Taft-Hartley bill becomes law, Green said the AFL and other branches of organized labor would fight against such "anti-labor legislation" by challenging its validity and constitutionality through the courts, and would "use our political strength to elect new members of congress for repeal of the measure."

CONDITION IMPROVED

The conditon of Probate Judge Oscar Gast who is in University hospital, Columbus, for treatment, is reported to be improved. Judge Gast was removed to the Columbus hospital from the City hospital here earlier this month.

SEEK TEACHER IN DEATH OF 2

Retired Denver Instructor Is Sought for Questioning in Slaying of Women.

By The Associated Press

PINECLIFFE, Colo., June 20—A dragnet was spread across the far west today for a retired school teacher, wanted for questioning in the slaying of his friends, Emily Griffith, 65, famed Denver educator, and her invalid sister Florence, 67.

The sisters were found dead yesterday in the mountain cabin they had made home since Emily Griffith's retirement in 1934 from adult education in which she had pioneered. Each had been shot once through the head from the rear.

The man sought was named by Undersheriff Donald Moore of Boulder county as Fred W. Lundy, 65, one-time teacher in Denver's Emily Griffith opportunity school. It was Lundy who helped build the small, book-lined Griffith cabin, took the sisters on mountain rides, cut their firewood and did many of the chores around their rustic home.

"Should Be Shot"

Denver Detective Joseph Holindrake, one of a squad sent by Mayor Quigg Newton to this small mountain community 30 miles northwest of Denver to aid in the investigation, said police had reconstructed this sequence of events near the time of the slayings:

Lundy asked Emily Griffith a few days ago to go to Illinois with him, hoping to ease the days of her older age. She refused. He expressed to neighbors his fear of old age and said, "when people get this old, they should be shot."

About 3:30 Wednesday afternoon, two neighborhood boys helped Emily Griffith carry groceries from a small store to the cabin. Lundy was sitting on the porch. Florence Griffith was inside. Within 20 minutes, neighbors saw Lundy take his car from a nearby garage and drive off.

May Be On Freight

They later saw the car parked a mile up the narrow canyon but saw no sign of Lundy. Dr. R. O. Buck of Cleveland, O., saw a man answering Lundy's description board a westbound freight train not far from the car.

Unjustly-Imprisoned Chicagoan Plans Spending $24,000 Balm

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 20—Joseph Majczek, 39, who will receive $24,000 from the state after Governor Green approves a bill awarding him that amount for wrongfully serving 12 years in prison on a murder charge, already has made plans for the funds.

First, Majczek said, he is going to have his mother take a long vacation, as a partial reward for her long and valiant fight to have him released from prison.

"I know I'll be able to convince her she should take a long rest," Majczek said after he learned the state legislature had voted the appropriation. "I won't feel right until she takes a trip to visit relatives in the west and really enjoys herself."

His widowed mother, Mrs. Theresa Majczek, who had mortgaged her home to raise a $5,000 reward for information that would help free her son, said: "I guess everything is going to be all right at last."

In 1946 Gov. Green pardoned Majczek, who was sentenced to 99 years in prison on a charge of slaying a Chicago policeman. It came after testimony at a pardon board hearing that an important trial witness, who had identified Majczek as the slayer, had told conflicting stories to friends.

The Chicago Times, which refused to help Mrs. Majczek, gave her own account, with some emphasis on finding new facts in the case.

Blankenship Arson Case Heard by Grand Jury

Twelve cases were heard by the Marion county grand jury when it convened yesterday. The report of the jury is expected to be given in common pleas court Saturday morning.

Among cases heard yesterday was that of Orval Blankenship, who has confessed to police to starting a fire which caused $90,000 damage to the Marion Plant Life Fertilizer Co. Blankenship was bound over to the grand jury Thursday after he pleaded guilty in municipal court to a charge of arson filed by Gayle H. Owens, first deputy state fire marshal.

DR. ROY E. WIANT DIES IN DETROIT

Former Marion Man Stricken at Patient's Bedside.

Dr. Roy E. Wiant, 60, of Detroit, former resident of Marion, died suddenly of a heart attack at 9 o'clock last night at the bedside of a patient in a hospital in that city. He was the son of the late Dr. Carey T. Wiant, who began the practice of medicine here early in 1880.

Dr. Wiant was born in Marion and was graduated from the Marion High school. He took his college work at the University of Michigan and in the east, and has been practicing medicine in Detroit for a number of years.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Lucy Wiant, a son, Dr. John L. Wiant who also is a practicing physician in Detroit, and a granddaughter, Judith Ann Wiant, aged one year.

Funeral services will be conducted in Detroit and the body brought here, probably Monday, for burial in the family plot in the Marion cemetery.

Dr. Wiant owned considerable real estate in Marion, including the Frontenac apartment building on South State street near the postoffice.

2-DOLLAR CORN PRICES NEARED

Trading in Futures One-Eighth of Cent Below Board's Top Record.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 20—Two dollar corn appeared to be a definite possibility in futures trading on the board of trade today as advancing prices sent the July contract up to the highest level since 1919 and only ⅛ cent below the peak level reached by any corn delivery in the board's 99-year history.

July corn yesterday hit $1.99 a bushel, which was 25¾ cents below cash corn.

In back of the upturn, grain men said, was a strong demand from cash grain houses which have sold corn for shipment out of Atlantic coast ports within the next several weeks and now are experiencing difficulty in obtaining the grain.

Rains and floods in the midwest, reducing harvest prospects for this autumn, are another factor in the price upturn, although grain experts said the weather was not a major influence on current cash prices or on the July futures contract.

Pit observers said the aggressive buying in the past few days from expert houses indicated that at least 1,000,000 bushels of corn have been sold to foreign countries. Reports from the east said Great Britain had purchased 880,000 bushels and Belgium 430,000 bushels since Tuesday.

These purchases were applied against July and August corn allocations granted Great Britain and Belgium by the agriculture department.

Grain men believe corn exports will be curtailed soon as more of the record-breaking winter wheat crop becomes available.

Corn in Chicago warehouses on June 14, the last date for which information is available, totaled 1,368,000 bushels, which grain men said was far below normal supplies.

DILLON DAM FUNDS OMITTED FROM BILL

Congressmen told reporters privately that the draft carries a nominal sum for getting work but nothing for construction.

Army engineers had requested $3,500,000 for the year beginning July 1.

The project has been the subject of dispute between residents up river from the dam and those below.

VOTE IS 331 TO 83; FINAL DECISION NOW LEFT UP TO SENATE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 20—President Truman vetoed today the Taft-Hartley bill to curb labor unions and an aroused house swiftly and overwhelmingly passed it over the veto.

That put it up to the senate to clinch the decision on whether the bill is to become law over the President's disapproval. It will vote late today or possibly tomorrow.

The senate is expected generally to override the veto, but both sides concede the vote will be close.

With a two-to-one margin needed to override a veto, the house vote was 331 to 83. That was 55 more "ayes" than necessary.

In the house ballot, 106 Democrats joined 225 Republicans in voting to override the President's wishes. Voting to uphold the President were 71 Democrats, 11 Republicans, and the one American-Labor party member, Rep. Marcantonio (NY).

Truman, Taft on Air Tonight

In his big battle with congress over the issue, Mr. Truman called in a group of leading Democratic senators for a White House luncheon—presumably to talk over the veto. He also announced plans to go on the radio tonight and give the people directly his arguments against the bill. He will speak over all networks at 9 p. m. (EST).

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), one of the measure's sponsors and chairman of the senate Republican policy committee, arranged to follow Mr. Truman at 9:45 p. m. with his side. He will speak over MBS.

In the late afternoon, the prospects as to the time for a senate vote were uncertain.

It was clear that Democrats would want to—and could by talking—force a delay until after the President's radio speech.

One Republican leader said efforts were under way to get an informal agreement fixing a time for a senate vote tomorrow.

In a 5,500 word message to the house, Mr. Truman laid down four general and 32 specific points of opposition to the bill to check strikes and unions. He labelled it "unfair" and "unworkable." He said it would promote strikes.

The house listened while a clerk droned through the long message. Then came the vote which smothered the veto under a deluge, of both Republican and Democratic votes.

Action Has 2 Results

That action did this:

1. Propelled the labor issue directly into the 1948 political campaign.

2. Erased whatever vestiges may have remained of White House teamwork on domestic affairs.

Carroll Reece, Republican national chairman called the veto a "plain defiance of the will of the American people" and an "open bid for a fifth term for the New Deal."

Mr. Truman summed up his displeasure of the labor bill in five terse sentences:

"The bill taken as a whole would reverse the basic direction of our national labor policy, inject the government into private economic affairs on an unprecedented scale, and conflict with important principles of our Democratic society.

"Increase Strike Threat"

"It's provisions would cause more strikes, not fewer.

"It would contribute neither to industrial peace nor to economic stability and progress.

"It would be a dangerous stride in the direction of a totally managed economy.

"It contains seeds of discord which would plague this nation for years to come."

As for the measure's ban against recognition of unions with Communist leaders, the President said that would play into the hands of the Communists.

"Confusion and Disorder"

"The only result of this provision," he said, "would be confusion and disorder which is exactly the result the Communists desire."

The fundamental task to be applied to the Taft-Hartley bill, Mr. Truman said, is whether it "promotes effective labor [illegible] management or whether it [illegible]

How Ohioans Voted On Labor Bill Veto

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 20—The following is the Ohio vote by which the house today overrode President Truman's veto of the labor-management bill:

Republicans for overriding:

Bender, Bolton, Brehm, Brown, Burke, Carson, Clevenger, Elston, Griffiths, Hess, Jenkins, Jones, Lewis, McCowen, McGregor Ramey, Vorys, Welchel.

Democrats against overriding:

Crosser, Feighan, Huber, Kirwan.

Rep. Smith of Marion was absent because of illness.

brushed aside Mr. Truman's counsel as they called for the house, and later the senate, to enact it over his disapproval.

As soon as the President's message reached the house, Rep. Hartley (R-NJ), chairman of the house labor committee and one of the bill's authors, told reporters:

"Certainly we aren't going to pass another bill as Mr. Truman suggested. The things he asked, insignicant as they are, are in the bill. And the bill is going to be law, veto or no veto."

"Too Little, Not Too Much"

Hartley said the President's criticisms prove that if there are any defects in the bill, "it is not because it is too drastic or comprehensive, but not comprehensive enough."

House Republican Leader Halleck of Indiana accused the President of having "definitely lined up with the radical element of the Democratic party" by vetoing the bill. He said:

"He (the President) has turned his back on the regular Democrats who had hoped that the radicals would not continue to control the party."

Halleck noted that 103 house Democrats voted for the bill when the house passed it, while 66 Democrats opposed it. In this minority, Halleck said, were "radical New Dealers."

"Wallace Re Worry"

"Henry Wallace need not worry any more about forming a third party," Halleck added. "If his veto message Mr. Truman practically turned the Democratic party over to Wallace and his gang."

Here are the major provisions of the bill:

1. Let the government get [illegible] to block "national [illegible]" strikes, as in the coal [illegible] industries, during 80 days [illegible]

General Reports Russ Soldiers 20 To American One

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., June 20—Lt. Gen. J. Lawton Collins said yesterday Russian soldiers outnumber those of the U. S. Army 20 to 1.

In addition, he declared, the Russians have "over 10,000" airplanes and "we cannot man 4,000 aircraft today."

Collins said that in case of trouble in Europe the U. S. forces there "are so small that they could easily be overrun."

He estimated that Russia is "capable of putting 200 divisions in the field, have them in the field right now," compared with 10 divisions in the whole U. S. army. He said "Russia's satellites in Europe" could provide another 100 divisions.

"I simply cite these as examples of the fact that twe are terribly weak today," the war department information chief said in a speech prepared for a convention of the reserve officers association.

"In all sincerity—in all logic," Collins said, "we must review our situation now, and take the necessary steps to meet what might happen to us. We can't deal in probabilities any longer.

"This was one of the mistakes made prior to Pearl Harbor. People said the Japs couldn't attack us but they did. Today other nations in the world are capable of attacking us."

The war department, Collins added, feels that "great ports like New York City would be logical targets, that great industrial centers like Detroit, Pittsburgh and Chicago would be areas of attack, not military dispositions of troops deployed in the field."

DEPLORES MOVE TO CHANGE OHIO HOUSE

By The Associated Press

SANDUSKY, O., June 20—Proposals to reduce farm representation in the Ohio house of representatives were described as "unfortunate" today by State Grange Master Joseph W. Fichter.

Fichter spoke before the Ohio State Association of Township Trustees and Clerks at nearby Cedar Point.

"Harmony between city and county is desirable in every state, but especially in Ohio which has both a large urban and a large rural population," he declared pointing out that the state ranks fifth in agriculture and has the most cities over 100,000 of the states.

"During recent weeks there have been proposals by officials of some cities suggesting an amendment to the state constitution for the purpose of reducing the representation of farm people in the house of representatives of the state legislature.

"These proposals are unfortunate because they are likely to incite antagonism between farm people and city people, thus counteracting the trend toward an understanding between the two groups which has been encouraged by agriculture, business and labor organizations during the last few years.

"The remedy lies not in changing the constitution, but in developing mutual understanding between farm and city."

CHILLICOTHE CHURCH BLAZE INVESTIGATED

By The Associated Press

CHILLICOTHE, O., June 20—Fire Chief Loren Gant continued an investigation today to determine the cause of yesterday's fire that gutted 102-year-old St. Peter's Catholic church and was featured by the heroism of two visiting Dayton, O., clerics.

The brick and stucco edifice apparently burned unnoticed until Elizabeth Helmuth, a neighbor, went in the alarm. Both its pastor, Rev. F. J. Kreuskamp and his assistant, Rev. George Schorr, were attending a Columbus retreat.

Former assistant pastor, Rev. William J. Goldschmidt, here to visit parishoners, and sub-deacon Carl Will, a seminarist, rushed into the blazing church with damp cloths wrapped about their heads and returned safely after removing sacred vessels in the altar tabernacle.

Rev. Francis P. Kemper, S. J., of the Milford, O., novitiate, temporarily in charge, unofficially estimated damage at $250,000. He said that a splinter from the Cross of Calvary, St Peter's most precious relic, had been saved in a metal receptacle that withstood the flames and heat.

Part of the church's 180-foot steeple and 10 imported holy windows were destroyed. Gant said that preliminary investigation led him to believe that either defective wiring or vigil lights before a draped statue caused the fire.

CLEVELAND, June 20—Counsel for Mrs. Rose Nagy, 41, today was expected to file a motion for a new trial after the thrice-married woman was found guilty o first degree manslaughter last night in the death of her mentally-retarded son, 14-year-old Rudolph Sutoris.

The jury's verdict, returned after 11 hours' deliberation, was termed "eminently fair and merciful" by Common Pleas Judge Samuel H. Silbert.

The judge refused to consider probation and deferred sentence pending filing of a motion for a new trial. The verdict carries a sentence of 1 to 20 years.

Mrs. Nagy fainted on hearing the verdict.

Her son was shot to death on a bed in her home on April 18.

Rooster Decides Life Without Head No Good

By Brush-Moore State Service

CANTON, June 20—Tuffy, the virile rooster that lived for 19 days without his head, has given up his fight for survival.

He was found dead in the cage where he was placed after his encounter with a sharp knife in a slaughter house here May 31.

Although he lost his head in the encounter, Tuffy was still alive when it came time to pluck and dress him for market and the workers at the Rome Differling market decided he shouldn't be anyone's Sunday dinner.

Differling placed him in a cage and for 19 days fed Tuffy with milk and grain by syringe and tweezer. But Tuffy died of malnutrition. The improvised feeding apparatus being inadequate to cope with his dietary needs.

Labor Bill Veto Overridden

threat to the successful working of our Democratic society."

He declared:

"This bill would go far toward weakening our trade union movement, and it would go far toward destroying our national unity.

"By raising barriers between labor and management and by injecting political considerations into normal economic decisions, it would invite them to gain their ends through direct political action.

"I think it would be exceedingly dangerous to our country to develop a class basis for political action."

Still Time for Bill

The President said there still is a genuine opportunity for enactment at this session "of appropriate labor legislation," and added:

"I still feel that the recommendations which I expressed in the state of the union message constitute an adequate basis for legislation which is moderate in spirit and which relates to known abuses."

In that message in January, the President said he recommended "a step-by-step approach" and indicated specifically problems which should be handled immediately. He also proposed a non-partisan investigation covering the entire field of labor-management legislation.

He said he was "fairly convinced" the current measure would weaken the economy and weaken the unity of the people.

The President's veto was the second one slapped on legislation developed by the Republican-dominated congress in line with pledges made by party speakers in last year's political campaigns which gave it control of the national legislature.

Two big G.O.P. campaign promises were:

1. A reduction in taxes.
2. Revision of the labor laws.

Kills Tax Cut

Mr. Truman vetoed their tax-cutting bill last Monday and the house upheld his action by a two vote margin.

Today's action swept away any remnants of White House-congress cooperation in the domestic field that had survived last Monday's veto.

Disagreeing with the whole philosophy of the labor measure, the President declared it would be "a dangerous stride in the direction of a totally managed economy" and said "it contains seeds of discord which would plague this nation for years to come."

In an analysis of the legislation, the President declared he had put it to four tests. He said;

1. That he had considered whether it would result in more or less government intervention in our economic life and concluded it would "inject the government deeply into the process by which employers and workers reach agreement" and "superimpose bureaucratic procedures on the free decisions of local employers and employes."

2. That in a second basic test as to whether it would improve "human relations" between management and labor, he had concluded "it would encourage distrust, suspicion, and arbitrary attitudes," inviting "costly, time-consuming litigation, inevitably embittering both parties."

3 On the third "basic test" as to whether the bill is workable, he had concluded it is not and that so-called "emergency procedure" for coping with nation-wide strikes "would require an immense amount of government effort but would result almost inevitably in failure."

4. On a "test of fairness," he said, the bill "prescribes unequal penalties for the same offense," requiring the national labor relations board "to give priority to charges against workers over related charges against employers," discriminating against workers "by arbitrarily penalizing them for all critical strikes."

"Will Increase Strikes"

Asserting the bill "would substantially increase strikes," Mr. Truman said it would discourage the growing willingness of unions to include "no strike" provisions in bargaining agreeemnts.

He contended also "the measure would bring on strikes by depriving "significant groups" of the right to organize and bargain by classifying broad groups as "supervisors."

"The bill would force unions to strike or boycott if they wish to have a jurisdictional dispute settled by the national labor relations board," the President continued. He said this is because the board is given authority to determine jurisdictional disputes over assignment of work "only after such disputes have been converted into strikes or boycotts."

While he said the bill seemingly preserved the right of employers and employes to agree to the "union shop," the President said "it would place such a multitude of obstacles in the way of such agreement that union security and responsibility would be largely cancelled."

Other criticisms:

The bill would limit the freedom of employers and employes to establish and maintain welfare funds "by prescribing arbitrary methods of administering them" and limiting the purposes for which they may be used.

"Prohibits Agreement"

It would present the danger that labor and management "might be prohibited from agreeing "might be prohibited from agreeperiod rules, and many legitimate practices, since such practices may fall under the language defining 'feather-bedding'."

The bill would encourage labor organization "to engage in constant inter-union warfare" and "generate rating and jurisdictional disputes."

It would prevent an employer "from freely granting a union shop contract, even where he and virtually his entire working force were in agreement as to its desireability."

The measure, the President added "would also put a powerful new weapon in the hands of employers by permitting them to initiate election at times strategically advantageous to them and give employers "the means to engage in endless litigation draining the energy and resources of unions in court actions."

"It would deprive workers of the power to meet the competition of goods produced under sweat shop conditions by permitting employers to halt every type of secondary boycott, not merely those for unjustifiable purposes."

Mr. Truman also contended the legislation would "straight jacket" the national labor relations board's operations by a "series of special restrictions unknown to any other quasi-judicial agency."

The procedure provided for dealing with major strikes affecting the public health or safety, the President argued, would "do more harm than good" and increase rather than diminish "wide-spread industrial disturbances."

On that, he said:

"I am convinced that the country would be in for a bitter disappointment if these provisions of the bill become law."

MASSILLON

might be of value in the investigation were interviewed by police, the prosecutor and County Detective Harry W. Grossglaus.

Mr. Morton previously had told police he spent the afternoon and early evening of June 6, date of the slayings, in Canton in the company of Wagner. Mrs. Morton said she spent the time at home.

The investigation, now in its 14th day, began at 7:45 p. m. June 6 when Rose Mary, nine weeks old, and Diane Brand, eight-week-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Brand, also of Massillon, were found fatally injured in their cribs.

Nurse Marian Silleck said she had made a routine check at 7:30 or 7:35 and found them sleeping. She returned to the room at 7:45 to find them dying of fractured skulls. Coroner E. C. Reno's verdict was death by homicide.

Investigators, after pursuing several theories including accidental death, now have turned their efforts to discovering the identity of a man seen in the ward by a patient and two visitors and on the stairs leading to the ward by another patient. He was carrying a jacket on the stair and wearing it when seen in the ward.

Senator Says Truman Will Sign Wool Bill

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 20—Senator Aiken (R-Vt) said today he believes President Truman will sign legislation permitting higher wool tariffs despite argument that it would smash the administration's foreign trade program.

"I think the President may be irked about the bill, but I believe he is going to approve it anyway," Aiken told a reporter.

Opponents of the measure, however, expressed hopes for a veto in debate before the senate passed it 48 to 38 yesterday and sent it to the White House.

The bill authorizes the Chief Executive to boost wool tariffs or impose import limitations whenever foreign wool shipments endanger the domestic price support program covering that commodity. The legislation extends the support program through 1948.

Labor Provisions Truman Wanted From Congress

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 20 — In vetoing the Taft-Hartley bill today, President Truman told congress there is still a "genuine opportunity" at this session for passing "appropriate labor legislation" based on his previous recommendations.

Those recommendations were set forth in the President's state of the union message in January. They promptly were labelled "inadequate" by some Republican leaders at the time. Here, briefly, are Mr. Truman's January legislative proposals.

1. To end jurisdictional strikes arising out of conflicts between two or more unions in the same field.

2. To prevent unions in certain instances from extending a labor dispute beyond the bounderies of the company where the controversy began (Such practices are known as secondary boycotts.)

3. To prevent strikes or lockouts that stem from a conflict over interpretations of an existing contract.

4. To bolster the labor department so that it would give greater help in settling labor-management disputes.

5. To give workers more social security and better housing to reduce the reasons for striking.

6 To set up a temporary, joint congressional commission to study management-labor problems and recommendations, particularly on methods of settling or preventing nation-wide strikes in vital industries.

In connection with the last point, Mr. Truman commented in his message today that congress, in effect, had put the cart before the horse. He said congress had reversed his proposed procedure by passing a labor bill before making a thorough investigation of labor-management relations.

Pope Lays Importance On "Social Justice"

By The Associated Press

VATICAN CITY, June 20 — Pope Pius XII in a radio address yesterday asked his listeners, to "open your eyes" and take cognizance of that fact that in today's problems, "social justice" imposes itself.

He addressed his remarks to the Marian congress at Ottawa and spoke for eight minutes in French. Then he changed to English for his bilingual hearers in Canada.

In his address in French the Pontiff implored Canadians to "guard jealously your magnificent traditions."

Then, in English, the Pope said "you have opened a congress which will be memorable." The congress, he said, honors "her whom the King of kings wishes to honor."

LAUSCHE SILENT ON GERMAN JOB OFFER

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 20—Former Gov. Frank J. Lausche had no comment today on a war department statement that he has been offered a trip to Germany to discuss taking a top civilian job under Gen. Lucius D. Clay, commander of the U. S. army forces in Europe.

The department would not specify the jobs available, but one important job under Clay who is vacant at present is that of director of internal affairs and communications. This job was filled by former Gov. Dwight W. Griswold of Nebraska until he resigned recently to head the United States aid mission to Greece.

One source reported Lausche scheduled to fly to Germany on Monday if he decides to investigate further the war department's offer.

It was believed that if Lausche accepted a post in Germany he would resign as general counsel for the federation for Railway Progress, a position he accepted only two weeks ago.

Lausche conferred in Washington on Wednesday with Secretary of War Robert Patterson and later called at the White House for a brief visit with President Truman.

Ohio's Available Jobs Show Drop for May

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 20—Available jobs dropped more than 1,000 last month to a total of 59,227 and unfiled job openings on file in local employment offices were down eight per cent from April 30, unemployment compensation Administrator Clyde Dunifon said today.

Dunifon reported that hiring of women dropped 4 per cent during May and the placement of handicapped persons, six per cent.

Of all Ohio's job-hunters May 31, he said, 27 per cent were women.

During the same period, Dunifon added, unemployment benefit payments declined 18 per cent.

It is estimated that during World War II a soldier made an average of eight trips within the United States before going overseas.

Depression Soon? — Pay Your Money and Take Your Choice

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 20—The famous steel master said business was about to ease off. The equally famous economist looked him in the eye and said it wasn't.

Wilfred Sykes, the well-barbered president of the mighty Inland Steel Co. of Chicago, told the senate small business committee that the current demand for steel is a postwar flurry soon to end.

Dr. Louis H. Bean, the shaggy-haired economist of the agriculture department, said the need for steel would be greater than ever.

Sykes said he doubted if the nation could use more than 76,000,000 tons of steel a year for the next 25 years.

Dr. Bean said that by year after next the mills had jolly well better be producing at least 10,000,000 annually to fill the demand. If they don't, he said, they'll be responsible for the resultant depression.

Same Question, Different Answers

The Messrs. Sykes and Bean are able men, honest, and highly respected. They even respect each other; at least they shook hands cordially. But what sent me into the market-place for a ouija board was their admission that they based their diametrically opposed predictions on the same set of business statistics. Sykes stared at a set of figures and saw slump. Dr. Bean gazed at the same page and saw boom.

I guess I'll stick to my ouija board. Even so, I think, the statements of the embattled experts are interesting.

The pink-faced Sykes, in a pale gray suit the exact shade of his hair, plunked down his cowhide brief case and told Chairman Edward Martin of Pennsylvania that the average demand for steel until 1975 will be no more than the 76,000,000 tons a year, o ra good deal less than the industry now produces.

Slump Rearing Ugly Head

Already, he added, can be seen the signs of demand falling off. One of his subsidiaries has filled all its orders for five-gallon pails and is looking for customers. A refrigerator company using Inland Steel Sheets is putting its finished boxes in storage because it can't find anybody to buy 'em at present prices.

And another thing, said Sykes, mentioning something which every motorist knows: manufacturers continue to mash steel thinner and thinner. Take auto fenders, he said. Much thinner than they used to be. So it is that steel goes further and (though he didn't say so) dents easier than before.

The tousle-haired Dr. Bean appeared in a heavy winter suit. Being a federal economist of long standing, he brought along a series of charts on an easel. One of these, the standard snakes-entwined graph, indicated that farm income varies directly with steel production.

Steel Makes Business Go

And so does all other business, Dr. Bean added. Everybody must depend on steel for full employment; this metal, he said, is an ever-accurate symbol of American prosperity.

His next chart, the jagged lightning number, showed that demand for steel goes up and up—and up. Or at least it always has. I may be oversimplifying his argument, but he said that unless tthe steel industry fills the demand, and quickly, its own pessimism will bring on a depression by 1950. Either it makes 100,000,000 tons of steel a year by then, he said, or it throws 12,000,000 people out of work.

Listen to either of these prophets singly and his statements are impressive. Listen to them both in the same room on the same sunny morning and they don't leave a fellow much choice. I'll string with ouija.

Too-Generous Indians Gave California Away

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., June 20—This play ground of the wealthy is also a cemetery of the vanishing Redskin.

It is the racial graveyard of Southern California's first real estate promoters and climate boosters—a friendly Indian tribe that greeted the white man with cheers and blowing flutes and was rewarded with extinction.

Hal Boyle

They are the Canalino or Chumash Indians, and they never managed to last long enough to rate bourbon and limousines from oil leases okayed by the Great White Father in Washington. They lost their lands and lives in the paleface booms, and the moral of their passing is:

"If you have something good and don't exploit it, somebody with more muscle will come along and take it from you."

Gave Away Key

When the Portuguese explorer Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo sailed through Santa Barbara channel in 1542, a number of local Grover Whalens from the Canalino tribe raced out in asphalt-lined canoes to give him the keys to Southern California.

Two centuries later when settlement by the Spaniards began in earnest, the Canalinos—still glad to find someone new to brag about the California climate to—insisted on spreading food before them and serenading them with flutes and horns.

"The infernal noise was sufficient to tear our ears to pieces," wrote Father Crespi, missionary and California's first music critic.

The missionaries at once set about converting the happy heathen, and put them to work tending the fields, learning handicrafts and herding cattle.

Old Penalty Now Void

Until then the Canalinos had been content to live on acorns, small game and fish. They had no alcohol or prostitution, practiced monogamy and even put to death squaws who went for an evening walk twice in a row with any strange buck—a penalty wives no longer have to worry about in Southern California.

The Canalinos wore few clothes—sometimes none — but still wouldn't look much out of place on the Santa Barbara beach. They had a high regard for women, and sometimes even had an elderly crone as tribal chief.

They took slowly to the strange new God the missionaries praised, but quickly adopted the bad habits of the Spanish soldiers—and their diseases.

The infection of their clean barbarism by an alien civilization quickly began to cut down the tribe's 15,000 population.

Fled to Hills

The secularization of the missions under Mexican rule left them homeless and helpless. They fled to the hills—a remnant of a people from a golden day that had set—and the Yankee ranchers and settlers, coming on a fresh tide of conquest, shot them down as cattle thieves which, by then, many were. They had no arts to live by in the new world. There was no Hollywood yet to give them employment in cowboy and Indian horse operas.

In 1927 the last full-blooded Canalino Indian, 82-year-old Juan Justo, was found living in a chicken house by the city dump—illiterate, deaf, slowly going blind, and near death from a gangrenous leg injury.

A sheepherder, he had come to work as a street cleaner in Santa Barbara in 1899 "to wear a felt hat and uniform so they would know I belonged to the city."

Juan Justo died in the county hospital on May 5, 1941, the last of his race to hit the trail to the happy hunting grounds where no white man has put a fence.

RAINS DELAY ROAD IMPROVEMENT WORK

$178,000 Crawford County Program Held Up.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, June 20—Continuing rains have not only played havoc with Crawford county planting but are upsetting the road improvement program in the county.

A road building and improving program scheduled to cost approximately $178,000 covering approximately nine miles of county roads has already been delayed by weeks, County Engineer Howard Horner reports.

Now in progress is the improvement by the Ohio Engineering Co. on the Bethel road, No. 22, north from route 30-N, east of Oceola. Two miles of highway is to be primed, sealed and given a black top surface at a cost of $15,150.

Two other projects to be done by the county maintenance crews are four miles of the Sycamore-New Washington road, No. 5 from Lykens east to state route 4, and about five miles of improvement on the road starting at the Boundary Line road, one mile east of Sulphur Springs and running east and northeast to DeKalb. The work is being held up until weather conditions permit grading.

The four mile project in the north section of the county is estimated to cost $35,000 and the five mile stretch from the Boundary road to DeKalb is estimated at $40,000.

In the southeast section of the county two bridges are to be constructed over the Olentangy river on county road 19, west of Galion and the other on county road 35, west of Crestline over Allen Run. Cost of the bridges is estimated at $88,000.

Other work delayed by the wet weather is ditch work, approximately 10 projects now being surveyed for improvements. About 30 miles of ditch is included in the jobs.

To return, no, never more.
No more upon this earth we'll see
Your sweet and smiling face,
There is no one in this world
Who can ever take your place.
Now we must journey on without you,
Though the day be long and sad,
Ever looking unto Jesus,
The best friend we ever had.
God takes our loved ones from our homes,
But never from our hearts;
It is hard for us to say goodbye,
But we all must part.
Rest, dear mother, your work is done.
And when the day of life is fled,
May we all meet up in heaven
Where no farewell tears are shed.
Sadly missed by husband and children—Frank K. Mosier and Children.

With or Without

THE Kremlin has a week to decide whether to join a Franco-British plan for European recovery; that is, a plan for European federation.

This looks like a deadline. The truth is, it's a deadlock. The Kremlin decided long ago the only European federation it was interested in would be under Soviet auspices. It isn't interested in a United States of Europe on the American plan.

Ever since the end of the war the Kremlin has gone out of its way to demonstrate that the traditional division between Asia and Europe had put the Soviet union on the side of Asia; i.e., against the separate countries of Europe. No country anywhere has adopted Russian dictator-communism voluntarily, but the Kremlin is expanding its influence in Europe by intrigue and force so rapidly that European governments still free have only one chance of survival —American economic assistance.

That is the origin of the Truman doctrine, with its recent modifications, chiefly the requirement that European governments take some positive steps toward self-help before receiving further assistance. The meeting between Britain's Bevin and France's Bidault was in response to this requirement.

Bevin and Bidault would have to be ignorant both of history and current events to believe the Soviet Union will go along with any plan of European federation. In fact, if it did decide to go along—for the sake of appearances—Britain and France would be embarrassed, and so would the United States. They are going ahead with or without Russian participation, presumably without it.

Europe is still what it has been for centuries —a peninsula beginning at a line drawn from the Black to the Baltic seas, with Russia reserving the right to change the line to suit its changeless purpose, which is the assimilation of Europe.

This Deserves a Veto

HOUSE approval of a bill to increase wool tariffs, or impose import quota restrictions when believed necessary, is a shortsighted action. The United States has taken the lead in promoting the Geneva world trade conference and now its delegates must attempt to explain the house's action, which is counter to everything the conference stands for.

The American wool industry is small. Its total 1946 output of $126,000,000 was even less than duties collected on wool imports. Jeopardizing an American economic policy, depriving an ally of dollars with which to buy American goods and raising the American price of wool constitute the narrowest form of catering to special interests. The bill now goes to the senate. Fortunately, the margin by which the house passed it is not sufficient to override the veto this short-sighted unwise measure surely will receive if it reaches the president's desk.

Traffic Safety

IN HIS speech opening the second highway safety conference, President Truman touched upon a point which doubtless will receive the delegates' earnest consideration. He pointed out that there is no uniform licensing regulations among the state, "and in too many jurisdictions," he added, "the licensing laws are nothing more than than revenue measures and their administration a travesty on public safety."

The President dwelt on the same point in opening last year's conference, but progress since then hasn't been satisfactory. Two states enacted driver licensing laws, leaving only one without them, but that's the only tangible gain. "This situation obviously cannot be permitted to continue indefinitely," Mr. Truman added, implying that if the states cannot make their laws strict and uniform, congress may take over the matter.

Good progress is being made in safety education, especially the development of high school driver training courses; the federal aid highway act of 1944 is assisting states in building modern traffic arteries. A result has been a definite downward trend in traffic fatalities since 1941. Adoption of uniform and stricter licensing regulations will make that trend even more pronounced.

Use Your Iron, Herb

WE ARE seeing a new Herbert Hoover these days. Speaking extemporaneously over the radio recently on "Invitation to Learning," he humorously discussed Izaak Walton's "Compleat Angler." Now he adopts a tone of good-humored irony to tell a Princeton audience how well this country has succeeded despite "the terrible reactionaries" and "the evils of right-wing freedoms."

Mr. Hoover may never become an oratorical extrovert of the Fiorello La Guardia type but when he starts playing around with ironic humor he is tinkering with a powerful weapon, and one which the average left-winger finds extremely irritating. One thing a left-winger can't stand is not be taken seriously. Call 'em names, revile 'em, but don't poke fun at them. That they can't stand.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Truman Finds Taxpayers Truly Unselfish.

WASHINGTON, June 20—The Trumanites have stage-whispered through their national microphones that the polls showed people want debt reduction more than tax reduction and that a tax cut would endanger foreign relief.

This basic reasoning assumes that taxpayers have been petitioning the government: "Please do not cut our taxes and endanger us." That the American majority rule has developed selfishness hitherto unmatched, except among angels, and is adding: "Please do not cut our taxes because aid to foreign nations, not yet decided upon, might be hurt."

The nearly two-thirds majority elected to congress last November did not get these polls. Republicans say Truman has not been elected to anything except senator and vice president. A survey of newspaper opinion by a recognized firm (Twohey) on June 7 showed 64 per cent of the press (nearly two-thirds also) supported the tax-cut bill in its final form; 28 per cent disapproved, and 8 per cent was classified as "mixed."

Source of Pressure

The congress majority has an understandable explanation of this conflict in reports of what the people want. Certain members who canvassed their home districts concluded that the White House mailbag has been filled by earnest organizations designed to influence politicians. And by this I do mean the CIO-PAC.

That outfit has spent undisclosed millions and possibly could lay down a million or more letters on any selected Washington desk on any given subject. Congressmen believe that this and allied groups have been working with Truman to get a veto of this union reform bill and so wrought the miracle of taxpayers protesting against tax cuts.

Surveys indicated the average taxpayer was reading and thinking but not doing much writing on any subject.

Congressional Republicans believe they have a popular issue against Truman. Six months of bad publicity for him is due and they do not expect he will be able to extricate himself by sponsoring a tax bill next year or by having his own groups promote publicity for him in the interim. Some Republican economists fear a popular demand for another wage increase as a result of the veto. People need money to meet high prices.

No Program Yet

As for influencing foreign aid, legislative logicians point out that no program has been formulated and will not become operative until next year, when Truman is supposed to be planning "the right time" for tax reduction. If foreign aid is influenced by tax cutting, it might be hurt by the Truman timing. At any rate, Republicans are willing to run on this issue for the next six months. By the failure of tax reduction, economists foresee:

Tax reduction will probably be delayed only six months. Republicans expect to make the next bill retroactive to next Jan. 1. No sharp results will flow financially. The administration would have spent upward of $32,000,000,000 next year, beginning July 1, so the prospect of $4,000,000,000 more being available for debt reduction makes no spending difference. The figures will all be changed before the problem comes up again. Resistance to high prices might possibly form, as less money will be available, results will be mostly political.

Three's a Crowd
But Not for Him

A New York gent is currently in the toils of the law on account of being married simultaneously to three women.

Apparently, he hadn't heard about the manpower shortage being over.

Either that or he just didn't believe in divorce.

Three wives . . . . his life must have been as full of intrigue as a comic strip.

Even Einstein is probably amazed . . . . imagine someone squaring the eternal triangle.

But the gent with the bent for multiple matrimony has a logical explanation: "I Love children," he told the judge.

He probably just wanted to establish his own little reform school.

Brazil Applies Tolerance

Seeks To Absorb Large Japanese Population.

By HOYT WARE
Associated Press Writer

RIO DE JANEIRO, June 20—Brazil is applying its traditional national tolerance to solve the troublesome problem of assimilating its large, sullen and sometimes unruly Japanese population.

Eighty-one accused leaders of recent riots among the Japanese colonists are being deported, but Brazilian officials say that no effort will be spared to make good citizens of the colony's solemn, round-faced children.

Terrorists outbreaks since the war among the large Japanese colony, nearly 300,000 strong, have resulted in bloody conflicts, numerous stabbings and general uneasiness.

Say Japs Won War

Unscrupulous Japanese preying on the ignorance of fellow colonists, claimed that Japan had won the war and the belief took firm hold in the secluded oriental villages where the colonists live.

Enlightened Japanese who tried to halt the spread of these fantastic claims were stabbed in the night as "traitors" by masked members of the Shendo Remmei, secret "patriotic" society.

Brazilian authorities, alarmed that their policy of letting the colonists alone had allowed a veritable "Little Japan" to grow up in San Paulo state, ordered police and army units to put down the wave of terror.

Hundreds of Japanese were imprisoned after gun battles with the military which left dead and wounded on both sides. The police moved in to explore the inner life of the secretive Japanese villages.

Await Jap Battlewagons

They found that Shendo Remmei leaders had planned to confiscate the farms of ignorant Japanese who had fled or were imprisoned. Some of the colonists, misled by the society's propaganda and false claims of victory, had gone to the coast to await Japanese battleships.

Police also found that Portuguese, Brazil's national language, was almost extinct inside the Japanese colony. Few of the colonists ever took formal citizenship.

After methodically checking through the villages, Brazilian officials screened suspected leaders of the wave of terror and marked 81 for deportation as "undesirable elements." Others were placed on probation.

When they turned their attention to the children they discovered few of them knew Portuguese and almost all considered themselves loyal subjects of Japan.

Teach Portuguese

Teachers now are being assigned to the villages to teach good citizenship along with Portuguese and to remind the youngsters every day that they are now Brazilians. The children, who are reported to respond readily to teaching, are encouraged to speak Portuguese after school hours and participate fully in the life of their adopted land.

Citizenship automatically is conferred on children born in this country although if they are born of foreign parentage they may choose either citizenship at the age of 21.

Although authorities say that it may take many years to eradicate the deeply imbedded feeling among the youngsters that they are foreigners in a strange land, they believe it is a project well worth trying.

Thus Brazil, a tolerant country racially and one in which no man ever has been sentenced to death, hopes to build its future with alien children who will become orderly and productive citizens.

Battle for Men's Minds

By DARREL L. MANSELL

A RUSSIAN brigadier general, Matyas Rakosi, is now giving orders to Hungarians. His Communist party workers in Hungary, he boasted recently, took over the government "before the United States could rub its eyes."

Rakosi then said such a coup could be carried out only "when democracy is united and led by the brave and iron-fisted Communist party, conscious of its aims."

Those last four words—"conscious of its aims"—probably are the key to everything wrong with American foreign policy. The American people are not conscious of their aims in Europe, Asia, Africa, South America, even in North America. Because this is a representative democracy, not a dictatorship, the vagueness of the American people about what they're going to do is reflected in their State department.

The United States, strongest trustee of the most revolutionary political doctrine to come out of the Christian era, has been put on the defensive and is being kept there by a counter-revolutionary movement concealing its real aims behind the word "democracy."

Democracy — government by the people and for the people—is the one thing dictatorships fear most. The Communists fear it so much they try to disarm their victims by telling them dictatorship is democracy, substituting the word for the practice.

There is nothing democratic about Russia's dictatorship. There is nothing democratic about Karl Marx's dictatorship of the proletariat.

Their Line of Strength

Communists are now potent in world politics for only one reason: They are the leaders of a movement "conscious of its aims." The aims of the Communist party are the overthrow of all governments not controlled by the Communist party. The United States government may rant and rave and deliver formal protests when coups like the one in Hungary are pulled, but the effect on the Kremlin will be that of a sincere tribute for a well-done job. The Soviet Union and its international agents — some of them former Red army men like Rakosi in Hungary — know exactly what they are going to do and are proceeding methodically to do it. They will have no objections to acknowledgements that they're succeeding.

Their purpose is the planned erosion of human liberty, in preparation for the establishment of dictatorship. They try to make it appear that the outcome of their campaign is inevitable—that free men may struggle but ultimately must be ground down to surrender.

They calculate that the millions who never have wanted to accept the responsibilities that go with liberty can be persuaded to line up behind totalitarian leaders. They can point to the record of modern dictatorship as proof that unorganized masses are helpless in the presence of a purposeful minority. They can point to the Germans who flocked after Hitler, the Italians who flocked after Mussolini, the Louisianans who adored Huey Long. They have reason to believe that the "Communist party, conscious of its aims," will find no lack of easy marks.

They believe in what they are doing as devoutly as the defenders of liberty believe the Communist party and its insidious debasement of personal dignity must be stopped. That is their strength —that and the fact they are compactly organized, while the opposition is split up into nationalities, divisions inside nationalities and divisons inside the divisions inside the nationalities.

For example, in the United States, while Americans are busy disagreeing with Henry Wallace they aren't likely to be able to find time to keep their eye on things vastly more important than Henry. That, too, is part of the strategy of the "iron-fisted Communist party, conscious of its aims"—to keep its victims divided and confused.

Goal Is Set

The Communists go armed with dynamic purposes. They know what they want to do. They know how they intend to do it. They have proved time and time again, in governments, in labor unions, in all kinds of organizations, that a handful of people "conscious of their aims" can get control of aimless, fumbling majorities. Hungary happens to be the latest example.

They can only be hindered, not stopped, by one more outpouring of our material wealth, this country's invariable answer to every emergency. If the Communist party can be neutralized it will have to be neutralized by ideas that are bigger and better than its scheme of planned chaos ending in dictatorship.

The ideas will have to come from persons who value liberty and are willing to pay the price of freedom. The ideas must have nothing to do with setting up dictatorships to fight dictatorships. That was the German way, and it ruined Germany. That is what the Communists ardently hope for. Reaction must be avoided at all costs. The one thing that can stop the Communists is the thing they fear most, a revival in the last half of the 20th century of the crusading spirit of liberty. If the United States could inflame the hearts of men with liberty in this century as it did in the 18th century, the nightmare of chaos ending in totalitarian rule would be shattered.

This is the great American assignment in the postwar world—the revival of zeal in defense of human liberty. It is the big idea that can check the "iron-fisted Communist party conscious of its aims"—a crusade for liberty conscious of its aims The battle for men's minds has begun.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Visit by a Strong Man

"I am Cudgey Clumpff, 235 Hobokus street, Hollynock Heights. I have a will of iron, announced the stranger.

"Good enough," we said, quite puzzled.

"I hate the wobbly type," the stranger declared.

"Okay by me," we said.

"I am a firm man. I come from a family of firm men," he went on. "Go back generations and you will not find a fickle, swerving type. There never was a vacillating Clumpff."

We were still puzzled by the man and his line.

"Nobody can influence me. When my mind is made up my mind is made up. I am not a reed in the storm," he continued.

"Go on," we said meekly.

"I have strong opinions. A conviction is a conviction," he said.

"Yes."

"There is nothing like being resolute. Show me a man who changes his mind often and will show you a mouse," he declared.

"Good," we agreed.

"Do you like sugar on your lettuce?" he demanded.

"No."

"Nor do I. But I always use it. My great grandfather did it, so did my grandfather and my father. A Clumpff is always a Clumpff."

"That's interesting."

"There is no use arguing with me," he thundered.

"I haven't argued with you," we said.

"No, but you might."

"It's unlikely," we said.

"You are entitled to your opinions and I am entitled to mine," he thundered.

"True," we said more puzzled than ever.

"There is room in this world for both of us," he said.

"I hope so."

"Live and let live, is what I say. One point of is all right but not one opinion."

"That makes sense," we admitted.

"One man's meat is another man's hamburger," he snapped.

"Absolutely."

"If you want to switch, it's your right and privilege."

"Fair enough," we said, still not getting in a point.

"I never switch. The Clumpffs are a family of non-switchers and always have been. I hope I have made myself understood. Good day, sir."

Then the truth suddenly dawned on us.

"You are the Man Who Hasn't Switched : Jilbert Whiskey!" we said.

"Exactly," he cried, triumphantly.

Fritzmallow Speaks

By TRUMAN TWILL

Due to circumstances beyond our control, it is time to do our annual piece on picnics.

This is the picnic season that may do away once and for all with the notion picnics are worth the trouble. Even the picnic pixies, bless their stout hearts and sturdy underpinning aren't amphibious.

If you take away nice weather as an excuse for picnics, what's left besides grease stains, ants in the potato salad, mosquitoes sucking your blood, grass stains on your outdoor getup and indigestion?

Even if the rains hadn't come, the picnic pixies were running their passion into the ground with the way they were insisting on all the comforts of home. A picnic used to have something to do with roughing it—chase me through the bluebells, Buster. But that was too harsh for the picnic pixies, who weren't happy unless they had portable stoves, refrigerators, water supply, furniture and circulating library with them.

They made the picnic such a chore a special truck called a station-wagon—a beach-wagon on the seashore—had to be invented to haul the junk. That was the beginning of the end.

It became simpler to stay home in comfort than to assemble the paraphernalia for a picnic. Whereupon, a lot of old-time picnickers fell back on the next best thing, which they called "eating outside." They did this in their own back yards.

"Eating outside" is the same as eating inside with fumes from a primitive stove, bites from bugs, discomfort and dirty hands added. The only advantage over a picnic in this respect is that the whole thing breaks up and moves inside at the first hint of rain, which is often.

Rain has been happening so often—so many meals that were going to be eaten outside finally have been eaten inside—that one bright customer, a former picnicker, finally saw the light and said:

"It came to me in a flash of lightning, there was something mighty nutty about giving up the comforts of home to refuel the hard way. I went inside. I looked at the nice stove, the nice sink, the nice running water, towels, soap, tables, chairs and all the other nice modern conveniences. I looked at my family, my friends and myself. 'Fritzmallow,' I says, 'what ever got into you to make you eat outside when generations of brave men struggled to give you the privilege of eating inside like a civilized human being?'

"I didn't know what had got into me. Maybe it was the potato salad with the ants in it, the underdone hamburgers with the wood ashes. Possibly the pickles with the green leaf hopper on them. Believe me, I'm a new man. From now on I am going to be my age, which is the stone age. Get it?"

That's standing up like a brave fellow, Fritzmallow. Pass the deviled eggs and brush the ant off the end of your nose.

FIRESTONE-FORD NUPTIAL PARTY GOES "GAY 90'S"

Flivers, Buggies Create Atmosphere for Receptions.

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., June 20—Amid the atmosphere created by two ancient Ford automobiles and a horse-and-buggy rig, Martha Parke Firestone and William Clay Ford completed pre-nuptial ceremonies leading to their marriage tomorrow.

The two cars—gleaming with polished brass despite their vintage of 1908 and 1911—and the rubber-tired buggy saluted the fame of the couple's grandfathers, the late Henry Ford and Harvey S. Firestone Sr., as 250 guests attended a dinner dance honoring the prospective bride and bridegroom last night.

Conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Rogers S. Firestone, the party was held at the riding ring of the Firestone estate on West Market street.

The riding ring was decorated in a "Gay Nineties" pattern, and tables were covered with red checkered tablecloths.

An old-fashioned barbershop quartet completed the party scene.

Another reception at the estate will follow the wedding, which is scheduled for 4:30 p. m. tomorrow at St. Paul's Episcopal church, with Dr. Walter F. Tunks officiating.

Ohio Congressman Asks Oil for Russ Be Halted

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 20—Rep. McGregor (R-Ohio) demanded yesterday that shipments of petroleum products to Russia be stopped immediately.

He said in a house speech that exports are continuing although President Truman and Interior Secretary Krug have expressed concern over the petroleum supply.

"I insist," McGregor said, "that the exporting of our petroleum products to Sussia be stopped immediately. Isn't it about time we gave the American people some consideration?

"I am wondering if this policy of exporting critical materials is not a cleverly arranged plan to maintain shortages in the United States which certainly makes our living costs remain at a high level.

"I firmly believe if we would stop these exports we would have sufficient amounts of everything to meet our needs in this country, which would mean our living costs would be reduced."

OUSTED SCHOOL HEAD GIVEN STATE BACKING

By The Associated Press

WILBERFORCE, O., June 20—Dr. Charles H. Wesley, dismissed president of two Wilberforce university colleges operated by the African M. E. church board of trustees, had full support of the state's board of trustees today to continue his work here.

In one of several resolutions adopted during an all-day meeting Thursday, the state board said that it regretted Dr. Wesley's summary dismissal by church trustees last week on the eve of Wilberforce's commencement.

The state board also said that so far as it was concerned, Dr. Wesley still was president of Wilberforce, and later named a three-member committee to survey the situation with the expectation that he would continue his program, including a summer school.

Dr. Wesley, at present, is head only of the state's college of education and industrial arts. Dr. Charles Leander Hill presides over the A.M.E.'s liberal arts and theology colleges.

Voting on most resolutions by by the state board of trustees was split, 6 and 3, Thursday. The board has six members named by Ohio and three by the A.M.E. church. All balloting found Cleveland aligned with the majority. Bishop R. C. Ransom, chairman of the church board, and Revs. Charles Spivey and Joseph Gomez, both of Cleveland, voted negatively.

"Our job is to so live our lives that there is a relationship, fellowship and constant affiliation between us as human and God as divine. It is our responsibility as individuals to state unwaveringly what God's plan for our life is. We dare not do with the control what we hesitate to do single handed. Have we found the plan of God for our lives. Have we said 'Lord, what will Thou have me to do?'

Wierth, pastor of the First Evangelical and Reformed church, at the Gabler home.

To repeat the single ring service the couple stood in front of the fireplace which was banked with palms and lighted with tapers held in seven-branch candelabra. On the mantel were Talisman roses, and mock orange blossoms and bouquets of summer flowers were used throughout the rooms to carry out the bride's colors of pink and white.

Completing her costume was a strand of pearls and matching earrings, white shoes and her flowers were white carnations in a corsage. She carried a hand-made linen handkerchief trimmed with lover's knot lace, a gift of the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Mary Bauer.

The bride's mother wore a costume in dark green and white with which she combined brown accessories. Mrs. Kline wore a black and white dress with black accessories. Both wore corsages of pink carnations.

For the reception the candlelighted table held a white and pink tiered cake decorated with a miniature bride and bridegroom and the flowers were American Beauty roses and mock orange blossoms. The napkins were monogrammed "Jane and Fred." Later Mr. and Mrs. Gabler were hosts at dinner at Hotel Harding after which the bride and bridegroom left for a short honeymoon on Lake Erie. For traveling the bride wore a navy blue dress with white accessories. They will be at home after Sunday at 872 Glen street in Akron.

The bride was graduated from Harding High school in 1946 and last year attended Bowling Green university where she majored in physical education. She is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority. Richardson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Richardson of Galion, were married in a double ring ceremony at First Methodist church in Galion Thursday. Rev. J. Edward Dinkle, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church in Temperance, Mich., the bridegroom's brother-in-law, was assisted by Rev. Norman R. Somerville, pastor of the Galion church.

Louis Girton, tenor, and Miss Dorothy Plack, church organist presented a program of nuptial music. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Constance Place. Robert Richardson of Cincinnati was best man for his brother.

Thirty guests were present for a reception at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony. The couple will live in Galion.

Only Taverns, Trucking Outfits Poor Businesses for Veterans

By VERN HAUGLAND
Associated Press Writer

SHINGTON, June 20—The government is finding the war a good business risk.

ex-GIs who got loans from the veterans administration o set up small businesses are generally doing very well, although truck and tavern operators have had some rough sledding.

G Deane, chief of the agency's business loans division, old reporter the government has to pay only $799,000 in claims veterans' loans it has guaranteed. That represents 1 196 claims a total of 70,000 business loans with a face value of $201,000 000

In addition to the outright failures, 1 079 other veteran borrowers have defaulted Deane said, however, that some of the defaults may be "cured" or part ally satisfied

Began in 1944

Under the GI bill, the VA began guaranteeing partial repayment of loans to veterans in September, 1944.

"The volume of defaults on loans has been small, said Deane. The showing to date has been very creditable The veteran businessman has turned out to be a surprisingly good investment"

Highest rate of failures has been among veterans who became single operators of trucks. Deane believes this is partly because the men lacked administrative experience and partly because of faulty equipment

Some veterans' groups have charged that ex-GI truckers have been taken for a ride" by second-hand car dealers disposing of machines that were fit only for the junkpile.

First 6 Months Hardest

Trucking failures, said Deane, have been most numerous in the western states, where long distances and mountainous terrain add to the difficulties The first six months usually are the crucial ones

Second highest business casualty rate was among operators of taverns, restaurants and night clubs.

"With such enterprises," Deane remarked, it seems to be feast or famine"

The veterans administration also has reported that defaults on home loans now number 2 821 out of 723 000 that have been guaranteed

The VA said that "business loans accounted for about half of all defaults to date although they comprised only 8 1 per cent of all loans approved The business loan default rate in March reached 1 39 per cent of all business loans closed, while defaults on home loans amounted to only 0 3 per cent of home loans closed"

The department of commerce recently reported a considerable increase in small business failures and estimated that a large number of them involved veterans

Small business "discontinuances —about half of which were failures, in a broad sense the others being the result of retirements illnesses and the like—averages 30 000 to 40 000 a quarter during 1944 and 1945

During the last quarter of 1945 they increased to 37 400 then to 42 600 in the first quarter of 1946 and to 54 200 in the last quarter of that year Of the firms going out of business, 98 per cent employed less than 20 persons each

Meanwhile new businesses, many of them operated by war veterans continue to make their appearance The commerce department said 272 800 new business establishments were organized in 1944 411 800 in 1945, and 187,000 in the first quarter of 1946 Thereafter the number declined slightly to 103,500 in the last quarter of 1946.

"Biff" Gwinner, 20 Weeks in Hospital, Now Gets Around in New Gift Wheelchair

By ELAINE BALLINGER

After a total of almost 20 weeks in City hospital at different times, and with the prospect of further hospitalization, young Robert "Biff" Gwinner of 348 Davids street can move about by himself again. Not on his own small legs as yet—the doctor says perhaps in September—but in a brand new chair which was given to him Saturday night by a group of women who had heard about him. Badly burned in January when his little overalls caught fire, three-and-a-half-year-old "Biff" has already undergone two major skin graftings on his left leg and must have another minor one. His new junior size wheelchair was a gift of the Marion Business and Professional Women's club.

His delight in the new contrivance is unbounded, says "Biff's" mother, Mrs. Robert V. Gwinner, who with her husband and son lives at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Gandert of the Davids street address. "Biff" has other grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Gwinner of 647 Miami street, and he has a pet, a cocker spaniel which is now at the home of friends in the country, and which he has already seen in his new wheelchair. The Gwinners have arranged to take a front seat out of the family automobile, replacing it with the wheelchair, thus enabling "Biff" to ride in the car.

Injured in January

The accident which took away little "Biff" Gwinner's power to walk happened Jan. 26 when, playing with his tricycle out of doors, he came in contact with a smudge pot which had been placed out near by his home. At city hospital, where he was for the first 15 weeks, he was treated for burns from his waist down, and both legs had to be bandaged. Most severely injured was his left leg inside from the knee up. He was sent home from the hospital, remaining three weeks, then the first part of May he was returned to the hospital for skin graft. Again at home, at the end of another six or eight weeks he will have his third skin graft treatment. It is hoped that "Biff" will be able to leave his wheelchair long before his fourth birthday anniversary Dec. 1.

A "decided blond," with big, blue eyes, little "Biff" soon became the "pet" of the hospital. During his weeks there, although he could not see into the corridor, he learned to identify the doctors by their voices, and can tell his mother the name of each one when he hears him speak.

"Butch" Hair Cut

Before his accident, he had curls, but now sports a "butch" hair cut because his daddy thought "that would be easier" for his mother to take care of. Mr. Gwinner is a salesman for the Beard Appliance Co. here. Mrs. Gwinner is the former Miss Betty Gandert of Marion.

In expressing her appreciation for the gift of the wheelchair, Mrs. Gwinner declared that it has "made 'Biff' an entirely different child." Quite proud of the chair, he "gets around" in it remarkably well and "enjoys it so much," she said. Though naturally he dreads the thought of another hospital ordeal, he is remarkably understanding for a child of his age, it was stated, and perhaps the idea of being able to move around again afterward in his little wheelchair will prove some compensation.

Help for Baby, Mother

Nowadays there are far too many mothers who do not breast feed their babies. And yet, I am firmly convinced they would make every effort to do so if they understood the full meaning of the statement that "the breast-fed baby is the best fed baby."

This short and catchy phrase sums up a great deal of complicated medical knowledge and it is absolutely true. Breast feeding assures Baby of extra protection against numerous health hazards which beset the new-born and, in general, gives him the best possible start in life both from the physical and emotional standpoints.

Most mothers can have an abundant and continuous supply of milk. In some cases difficulties do arise but they can usually be taken care of with proper handling.

Some mothers may find, for instance, that although the supply is plentiful at first, it soon decreases. Many doctors believe that often the reason for this is excessive pressure within the breast. The cells which form the milk are compressed and thus, the supply is stopped.

To prevent this, Dr. Harold Waller of England believes that during the last three months of pregnancy, the material in the breast known as colostrum should be expressed, that is, completely pressed out of the breast. Of course, this must be done in the correct way. This procedure is not difficult to learn but requires some practice. If the nipples are inverted or turned inward, the doctor often recommends that a glass shield be worn during the last three months of pregnancy.

When the milk pressure becomes excessive during the first days of nursing, the breast becomes hard and swollen. This excessive pressure may be relieved by expressing the milk by hand. We have worked out a special technic for breast expression which is simple and assures complete emptying of the breast and we will be glad to send a description of it to you if you will write enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope.

A preparation known as stilbestrol is useful in preventing and reducing the excessive pressure in the breast in many cases by reducing the milk secretion. The dose must be carefully adjusted by the doctor in each case so that the pressure is quickly reduced. The stilbestrol need be given only over a short period of time, and is taken by mouth every three or four hours. As the effects of the stilbestrol wears off, breast secretions gradually return, and breast feeding of the baby may be resumed.

Increased pressure in the breast is by no means the only cause of failure of the breast milk supply. In most cases, it is due to failure to empty the breast regularly and completely at each nursing time. Often the baby is given bottle feedings to prevent loss in weight right after birth, and in order that the baby may rapidly regain his birth weight. The infant soon finds the milk is easier to get from the bottle than from the breast because of large holes in the bottle nipples, so he does not make sufficient effort to empty the breast. Bottle feedings should be given only when necessary and the physician will advise as to their need.

Council at Bucyrus Plans Office Change

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, June 20—Two major issues were discussed by city councilmen Tuesday night, one the first official move toward a possible conversion of the fire department to embrace all municipal departments and the other the oft discussed issue of addition fire protection on the north side.

The matter of converting unused space at the fire department into city offices was brought up for discussion when City Auditor E. C. Oppenlander said he would welcome an estimate on cost of the conversion. The finance committee was given instruction to secure such an estimate along with another estimate on improving conditions at the present city jail quarters, the latter upon recommendation of Councilman James E. Frey.

The question of more fire protection north of the railroad and river was brought to attention again with both written and oral requests for additional fire alarm boxes. It was brought to light in the discussion that only two fire alarm boxes are located in the first ward. Sixty eight signatures were attached to the petition.

The article said that under the Russian proposal, Germany was to give the Soviets a free hand behind a line roughly from Riga, on the Baltic, to the Dardanelles and aid Russia if she attacked Turkey, and Russia was to start immediately to supply quantities of raw materials, including oil and manganese to help sustain the German war effort elsewhere"

The negotiations were ended by Russia the article said, in the belief Germany had let word of them spread so far there was danger the offer might come to the attention of Russia's allies then planning the invasion of France

Similar Russian negotiations in the fall of 1943 were mentioned briefly during the Nuernberg trial

U. S. Foreign Trade Platitudes Don't Jibe with New Wool Bill

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, June 20—Wool is in the news now but in a way that is bigger than wool itself

It involves the welfare of American woolgrowers. But is also involves our hopes for good foreign trade

We need more wool than we grow. Last year we grew 300,000,000 pounds. We imported more than twice that much

James Marlow

In wartime American woolgrowers had to sell to the government. In return, by law the government had to pay them 40 to 42 cents a pound, a good price

They didn't have to continue selling to the government after the war but they did to get that good price And by law the government had to buy

Government Better Buyer

But why sell to the government instead of in the open American market? Because the government price was better

Foreign woolgrowers were sending their wool here and selling it to American manufacturers at less than the government price of 40 to 42 cents a pound

(They were able to do this in spite of a tariff of 34 cents a pound on all imported wool a tariff placed on wool imports years ago to protect American woolgrowers)

What happened to that American wool the government was buying up? Nothing It had to keep it By law it couldn't sell it for less than it had paid for it which was 40 to 42 cents a pound It would be losing money

(The government couldn't sell this stockpile—it's about 500 000 000 pounds now—at 40 to 42 cents a pound because the foreign wool coming in was selling for less)

So should the government already loaded with a stockpile continue to buy American wool? Should it try to sell the stockpile? How could American growers be protected from foreign competition?

Congress Passes Bill

Congress tackled those questions Yesterday after months of trying it finished up a bill If it becomes law, the bill means this

1 The government must continue to help American growers by buying their wool at 40 to 42 cents a pound, at least until Dec 31, 1948

2 Then the government can sell this wool, and what it has in the stockpile at any price, even though lower than 40 to 42 cents

The government would lose money on this but American growers would be protected, since they sell to the government at 40 to 42 cents And foreign wool coming in here would have to compete with low-priced wool sold on the market by the government

3 As another means of protecting American growers, the President can—but doesn't have to—fix quotas on import fees

(By quotas he could limit the amount of foreign wool coming in and by import fees he could add a tariff to the present tariff of 34 cents a pound)

Truman's Stand in Doubt

No one knows whether the President will sign the bill If he doesn't, American growers will suffer, and for this reason

The law compelling the government to buy American wool expired April 15.

Unless the just-passed bill be able further to get the government comes law, American growers, unment price of 40 to 42 cents a pound will have to compete with the lower-priced foreign wool on American markets

If the President signs the bill into law what happens? The state department fears it will hurt our efforts to build up foreign trade

For weeks this government has been meeting with other nations at Geneva to work out a program to help the trade of all nations including ours

The heart of the program is to lower tariffs by all nations on the goods imported from one another Geneva conference congress passed

But right in the midst of the the bill to put a crimp in the competition from foreign wool

Now other nations are watching to see whether we talk about lowering tariffs to increase foreign trade while trying to shut out some of it

U.S. SETS AIR SPEED MARK

Jet Plane Hangs Up 623.8 Miles Per Hour New World Record.

By The Associated Press

MUROC, Calif., June 20—An army jet plane, the P80-R has regained the world speed record for the United States—at 623.8 miles per hour

Streaking but 50 feet above the Mojave desert near Muroc Army airfield Col Albert Boyd of Asheville N C, guided the Lockheed built fighter yesterday on four runs over a 15 mile (three kilometer) course The average topped by 7.8 MPH the 616 MPH mark set by a British Gloster Meteor jet plane Sept 7, 1946

With the wind the P80-R recorded speeds of 632.5 and 630.5 MPH The upwind runs were made at 617.1 and 614.7 MPH

The record will not be official until certified by the Federation Aeronautique International in Paris Official observers however pointed out that the new mark was made over the standard course and according to all other international speed rules

It was the first time in 24 years that the United States moved into the top position although a P-84 jet moved the mark up from 606 to 611 MPH the same day the British announced 616 MPH

The pilot, Col Boyd is chief of the flight test division of the Air Forces' Air Materiel Command at Wright Field, O Although aloft only 21 minutes during the entire procedure, he had his hands full

"It keeps you busy as hell Col Boyd declared "There are so many things to do and so many instruments to watch You have water injection to turn on and off for more power And you must not exceed the prescribed altitude and must keep on the course

"But it's a great feeling to set a new record"

The last time an American pilot held the speed record, Lockheed said, was in 1923 when Lt Al Williams flew a Curtiss racer at 267 MPH

Season's Corn, Bean Crop Below Normal In Wyandot County

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, June 20—Continued rains this week have taken another deep slash into the potential corn crop of this area According to Wyandot County Agent S C Cushman, only 15 to 18 per cent of the normal corn acreage in the county has yet been planted

Many farmers near here believe today will be the final day on which to plant for a reasonable return but others plan to plant until July 1 or even later to obtain some grain and the ensilage from the stalks

An ample supply of early maturing varieties of hybrid seed corn is available is a result of the record production in the county last year A total of 16 100 bushels of hybrid seed was produced and offered for sale in Wyandot county in the past year This was 3 000 bushels more than was produced here in 1945, and is more than double the estimated 7,300 bushels needed to plant the normal corn acreage in the county

An abundant supply of hay is in prospect since fields of timothy, clover and alfalfa are not being plowed under as they normally would be Some hay has already been cut and stored as grass silage to supplement the short grain crop as livestock feed

Time is also growing short, Mr Cushman added for planting soybeans The beans should be in the ground by July 1, and the continued rains have made it unlikely that a large portion of the ground usually given to that crop will be planted by that time A the Killdeer section in southern failure of the soybean crop would Wyandot county where beans are be particularly bad for farmers in the major crop

MARION EDGES MUNCIE, 4-3, ON ROSIN'S TWO HITTER

Pivorunas To Pitch Tonight's Single Game Against Packers

By DON C. BURTON

The Marion Cubs rallied for three runs in the eighth inning to come from behind and give Bill Rosin a well-pitched game over the Muncie Packers 4 to 3 at Lincoln park last night before 1,237 fans.

Rosin held the Packers hitless until the seventh inning when Leonard Lamont tagged him for a double between right and center on which Bob Shuford made a desperate try. After an error by Bobzean and a wild pitch had put runners on first and second with one out Tom McGhee came through with a liner over the head of Hollingshead for two runs.

Rosin struck out nine and walked seven and looked like the early season Rosin. Jim Hildebrand, side arm righthander who shutout the Cubs Sunday, was extremely wild, but hard to hit and gave up only two singles while walking 12 men.

Break Shutout Streak

The Cubs scored an unearned run in the second frame for the first one off Jim in 14 innings. He started a game in Muncie in May against the Cubs and was leading 7-0 when the game was stopped by rain in the fourth inning. He walked 12 men and struck out none, but let the winning run on first base when relieved by Walter Post in the Marion eighth.

The Cubs first tally in the second frame came when Manager Nelson Burbrink got a life on Locke's error, advanced to second on a walk to Nelson and scored when Jim Forbes sent a sharp single to left center.

Run Looks Big

The Cubs only run looked big as Rosin was mowing the Packers down without a hit. A fine double play, Rosin to Bobzean to Forbes, got him out of trouble, after walking Locke in the first inning.

With the Cubs leaving men stranded on the sacks, it looked in the seventh like Rosy might lose the best pitched game of the years.

In the Marion eighth, Rosin walked and was sacrificed to second by Roy Hollingshead. While pitching carefully to John Smith, Hilderbrand walked the keen eyed third sacker. Manager Mike Blazo then removed Hilderbrand in favor of Walter Post, with two balls and on strikes on Gene Bobzean.

The Marion shortstop then came through with a single to left off Post to score Rosin with the tieing run, and sending Smitty to third.

Burbink Comes Through

After Shuford walked to load the bases Manager Nelson Burbrink came through with an an infield single to tally Smith with the run which put the Cubs ahead 3-2. Walter Rasmussen, new outfielder followed the skipper with a single to left to plate Bobzean with a run that later proved to be needed.

Muncie tallied a futile run in the ninth. Rosin walked Foster and McGhee after striking out Gatjanis. Spaziano pitch hitting for Mello hit a sharp bounder to Smith who stepped on third forcing Foster, but then threw wild in first and McGhee went to third. Rosin then committed a balk that scored McGhee.

The two teams will again lock horns tonight in a Single game with Gaspar Pivorunas slated to hurl for the Cubs. Gaspar has a record of two wins against no losses since joining the Cubs two weeks ago from Iola, Kan. of the K.O.M. league where he had won three and lost none.

Zanesville Divide's With Springfield As Dayton, Lima Win

By The Associated Press

Dayton's Indians and Marion's Cubs did what they could last night to untangle the Ohio State league's first division picture, while Zanesville's first-place Dodgers divided a twin bill with the Springfield Giants.

Dayton picked off Newark, 8 to 3, although outhit 12 to 7. Marion topped seventh-place Muncie, 4-3, on a three-run eighth inning rally and Bill Rosin's two-hit flinging.

The Newark defeat, spoiled the managerial debut of former New York Yankee Sam Jones.

Jones replaced Ed Dancisak as Brownie pilot only a few hours before the Dayton tilt.

Zanesville was led by pitcher Clarence Anderson in winning the opener with Springfield, 12-7, but Carl Hosler's homer and a damaging seventh-inning error helped the Giants to victory in the nightcap, 3-2.

The league's fourth contest saw last-place Lima smack down Richmond's Roses, 7-4.

Major Flag Races Settling Back Into Dope Sheet Form

By The Associated Press

Baseball's dizzy pennant races are reverting to form as the clubs approach the one-third mark with another Boston Red Sox-St. Louis Cardinals world series a distinct possibility.

Mention of such a pairing would have prompted loud hoots and a hurry-up call for the booby wagon two weeks ago. Now the Red Sox are in first place with an unbroken eight-game winning streak and the Cards have surged from last to fifth, only 4½ games out of first, by winning their last seven straight.

The Red Sox moved into the American league lead yesterday, while enjoying an open date, on the strength of Chicago's 6-4 victory over the New York Yankees.

Boston's Braves became the new National league pace setter, while watching the rain wash out their scheduled game in Cincinnati, because New York fell before Pittsburgh, 12-2 as Mort Cooper was clubbed for eight hits in 2 2/3 innings of his Giants' debut.

The Giants suffered another blow when lefty Montia Kennedy, young southpaw, was hit in the head by a line drive off the bat of Walker Cooper in batting practice. He suffered a linear fracture of the skull and will be out at least three weeks.

Brooklyn swept the entire three-game set from the Chicago Cubs, elbowing into third place, on a 5-1 success against Johnny Schmitz. Ralph Branca posted his eighth win on an eight-hitter.

Those amazing Philadelphia A's handed Detroit its fifth straight loss, 8-4.

Washington eked out a 3-2 margin over Cleveland for Early Wynn's eighth victory.

Cleveland Starts Eastern Invasion Vital To Hopes

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, June 20—The Cleveland Indians tonight oppose the rampaging Boston Red Sox in the first of our games and then move over to New York for a trio of contests against the Yankees.

"Those will be big ball games," Manager Lou Boudreau remarked by way of understating the effect of the coming week's play on Indian pennant hopes.

The Indians dropped a 3-2 verdict to the Washington Nats in the series finale, chiefly because of Early Wynn, who scattered seven hits before he was forced to retire in the ninth.

Wynn left the box when Lou Boudreau led off the ninth with a long double and Pat Seerey lined a single that scored Eddie Bockman, who ran for his manager. Tom Ferrick came in and throttled the Indians from that point.

The Indians loaded the bases with none out in the sixth but were able to score only one run Wynn walked pinch-hitter Eddie Robinson to force Les Fleming across the plate.

Williams Slugfest on WMRN Tonight

NBA lightweight champ, Ike Williams (above), Trenton, N. J., invades welterweight ranks at Madison Square Garden tonight. He tangles with one of the best, Tippy Larkin, of Garfield, N. J.

Williams isn't seeking the crown but he wants to prove he can be poison to high-ranking 147-pounders. Ike is a puncher and packs plenty of power in either duke. Some think he's short on boxing skill, but that doesn't seem to hamper him. He has kayoed almost half of his foes.

So far as fistic skill is concerned Larkin is practically in a class by himself. The Garfield Gunner has lost only three decisions in more than 125 fights, which indicates it takes a haymaker to beat him.

Enjoy the excitement, blow-by-blow, on Gillette's Cavalcade of Sports over American Broadcasting Co. and WMRN (1490 on your dial) at 10 p. m.

And remember, men . . . LOOK sharp! FEEL sharp! BE sharp! Use Gillette Blue Blades with the sharpest edges ever honed!

J. WALTER MORRIS, has the answer to gambling in baseball. The tough president of the Evangeline league, where five players were banned last year, is holding club managers strictly responsible for the company their players keep. If they slip up, they'll hear bad news from Morris, who is rated the sternest league president in baseball. Last year he issued more fines and suspensions than any other chief.

PLAYS THAT COUNT

By FRANK ECK
Associated Press Sports Writer

BILL DICKEY
Yankees

a ways remember the ... and final game of the ... World Series for its many ... incidents," says Manager ... Briegel of the Washington ...

... e played third base for ... ors that year. His infield ... were Roger Peckinpaugh ... at short, Bucky Harris on second and Joe Judge on first.

"That was a great infield," says Ossie. "The New York Giants were pretty good themselves with George Kelly and Bill Terry alternating on first, Frankie Frisch on second, Travis Jackson at short and Heinie Groh and ... nostrom on third But we ... e top pitcher in Walter ... n who was about 37 then ... had an outfielder named ... Gosl n and a pitcher, Firpo ..., the king of all fin-

... the play I'll always re- ... er happened in the nip and ... final game I was always watching John McGraw (Giant manager). Mac walked over to Lindstrom, a right-centerfield hitter who could run. I played Lindy shallow for a bunt and he did just that.

"I'll always pride myself on that play.

"We won that game 4-2 in 12 innings to win the Series. It was in that game that Hank Gowdy of the Giants stepped on his mask and missed a pop foul hit by Muddy Ruel Muddy doubled on the next pitch and scored when Earl McNeely singled to left.

"There's a story behind McNeely's hit, too. The ball hit a pebble and bounced over Lindstrom's head into left field where Emil Meusel picked up the ball and stuck it in his pocket.

"I'd swear Muddy would have been a dead duck if Meusel had made the throw.

"Also in this game Bucky Harris outmaneuvered McGraw. Bucky put a right-handed pitcher in the game to bring in the left-handed hitting Terry When Terry stepped to the plate Bucky tossed in a left-handed pitcher Then McGraw put in a right-handed batter and that got rid of Terry."

Fans Call Play Officials Miss

COMMERCE, Tex—The spectators finally got to decide a play.

It was a good thing there were fans present or they might have had to do this all over.

It happened in a basketball game between East Texas State and East Central Oklahoma

Travis Bruce of East Texas State and Max McClearin of East Central plowed head-on toward the Oklahoma goal. McClearin played his shot just before he and Bruce crashed into the gymnasium wall

Neither of the officials, W. H Keeling or E O Hayes, saw whether the ball went through the hoop Their eyes were on McClearin lying unconscious on the floor

Witnesses said the shot was good.

So scorekeeper Lee Watson of Dallas gave the Oklahoma team two points—but he still wasn't sure

But it didn't matter too much East Texas State won 48-42

VETO OVERRIDE GIVES STOCK MARKET JUMP

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 20—The stock market registered slow improvement today in the face of the President's veto of the labor bill.

Wall Street interest centered in prospects for congressional action to override. Motors, rails, liquors, and selected industrials were leaders in extending the recovery in moderately active dealings. Fractional advances were in the majority near the fourth hour.

American Telephone continued its bounce from the year's low with an advance extending more than 3 points at one time. Others prominent on the upside were Chrysler (which touched a new 1947 high), General Motors, International Minerals, Bethlehem, U.S. Steel, Goodyear, Norfolk and Western, Nickel Plate preferred, Douglas Aircraft, American Distillers, Schenley, Distillers Corp., National Distillers American Smelting, Air Reduction and J. C. Penney.

Observe Guest Day

An all-day guest day meeting of the Wesley Methodist WSCS was held Thursday at the church. A potluck dinner was served at noon followed by a program in charge of Mrs. Robert Wilson. Mrs. Lowell Cook spoke on "Women of the Bible." The musical portion of the program was given by the Northside Mother Singers under the direction of George Wingett. Master Buddy Wingett closed the program by singing the "Lord's Prayer."

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

"HOW do you know anything has happened?" I asked, countering Dicky's anxious question.

"By your eyes, and the general cut of your jib," he answered. "Remember me? I'm your lawfully wedded spouse, and I've been conjugating your moods and tenses for lo, these many years. So come clean! I suppose it's some new angle about Mary."

"Right again," I said. "For I've just found out what's driving Mary to desperation."

He looked at me comprehendingly.

"So she finally broke and told you," he said.

"Yes," I answered shamefacedly, "but I broke first; told her I knew, taxed her with the truth, and she acknowledged it. And I did it after I'd agreed with you that we couldn't mention it until she did!"

He crossed to my side, took me by the shoulders and gave me a little shake.

"In your childhood," he said severely, "did you ever hear of an old adage running: 'Circumstances alter cases'? I can see you did, so please cut out the frills, and get down to cases. I'll bet we both guessed the set-up, although we didn't say it out loud What she fears is that she's losing her memory, can't get up her lines."

Only Part of It

"Yes, she fears that," I said. "But that's only part of it. That, alone, wouldn't make her plan to get out of the world. She's obsessed with the idea that she's inherited insanity from her mother, and that she faces eventual imbecility—'being fed with a spoon like a baby'—she puts it, and she's determined to die rather than face such a fate."

Dicky's face was ashen when I had finished.

"My God in Heaven!" he breathed reverently. "That poor kid believing such arrant nonsense! Is she awake? I'll go in there right now and knock some sense into her head! Inherited insanity, my right eye! You know why Elizabeth had those quirks. There was nothing inherited about it. Any woman who had the experience she did when Roderick was born could have gone off her light beam as Elizabeth did."

He was almost at the door—his stride is a long one—when I caught his arm and tugged him around facing me.

Has Quieted Down

"Do you want to spoil everything?" I whispered savagely. "She has quiet down and agreed to hold everything until I hear from Harriet. Please don't upset her! And I have a lot more to tell you."

His eyebrows were knitted into the portentous frown of a man ruthlessly interrupted in some planned course of action.

"Hear from Harriet!" he muttered. "What in the world? Is that your bright idea or Mary's?"

"If you'll come back and sit down," I promised, "I'll tell you everything I know, and if you retort that it won't take me long, I'll—I'll"

His brows rleaxed, and he put out his hand, rumpling my hair.

"Okay," he said, "You win. This coon will slide down the tree and listen to a bedtime story. But you'd better make it a good one."

"It will be," I said confidently, and when we were seated opposite each other, I told him of my trying to convince Mary that her mother's "quirks" of mentality were the result of an unfortunate experience when Roderick was born, and of Mary's patent unbelief.

"She said she wouldn't believe you on a stack of Bibles" I told him, "and that it would be a poor mother who wouldn't shield her daughter."

Would Kill Her

"Good heavens, you can't drag Mother into this mess!" he exclaimed, horrified. "It would kill her."

"Nobody has even thought of telling her anything," I said a bit tartly. "But I asked Mary directly if she would believe her aunt Harriet. You know how uncompromising the Braithwaites are."

"Do I ever!" he said. "But what was Mary's comment?"

"That if Harriet did say anything definite, it would be the truth, and she would believe her. But she is very sure that Harriet will evade the question. However, she is will for me to write her aunt, and just now, when I left, she mentioned my having to write letters—of course Katharine knows nothing of this—and I am sure she is subconsciously counting on a message from Harriet."

"Well, have you written the letter?" Dicky demanded impatiently.
